Padua Franciscan Students Launch Christmas for Others Campaign

PARMA, Ohio – (December 3, 2013) On Friday, December 20, the students of Padua Franciscan High School will distribute cash, food, toys and clothing to more than 20 area social service organizations and families in need as part of the “Christmas for Others” (CFO) campaign. CFO is a month long program designed to make the holidays a bit brighter for those less fortunate. For more than 40 years, Padua Franciscan students have collected over $400,000 for area needy through the CFO campaign. In 2012, Padua set a new record with over $30,000 in cash and donations.

CFO is the largest, student-run outreach program in northeast Ohio. It is unique because it is sponsored, organized, and operated by students under the coordination of the Padua Key (Kiwanis) Club. Decisions on how donations are distributed are made by the Key Club student officers, who determine the recipients and appropriate size of each gift.

The students raise funds in many ways, all of them involving a good deal of fun. For example, some of the money available for CFO projects comes from an inter-class “Coin War,” that pits grade levels against each other to see who can collect the most pocket change. Last year’s Coin War produced over $10,000 in just two weeks. The first $2,000 was used to purchase toys to be distributed through the Bishop Cosgrove Center which serves Cleveland’s homeless.

Other significant sources of income involve a music concert, a senior vs. underclass volleyball game, canned food drive and various other projects sponsored by student organizations. In addition, members of the Key Club made direct deliveries of food and money to numerous needy families in the neighborhoods surrounding Padua Franciscan.
